3 Weeks of The Big Conversation

Week three of The Big Conversation road shows. This week nursing and midwifery staff shared thoughts and experiences at roadshows within the Royal Hospital for Children and Glasgow Royal Infirmary. You shared what matters to you as a nurse/midwife. You talked about frustrations as well as the passion and commitment that drives you every day to make a difference to your profession.

With your continued feedback this information will inform the development of our vision and nursing strategy. The Big conversation is our opportunity to listen, share and develop our path for the future together.

What we've accomplished so far:

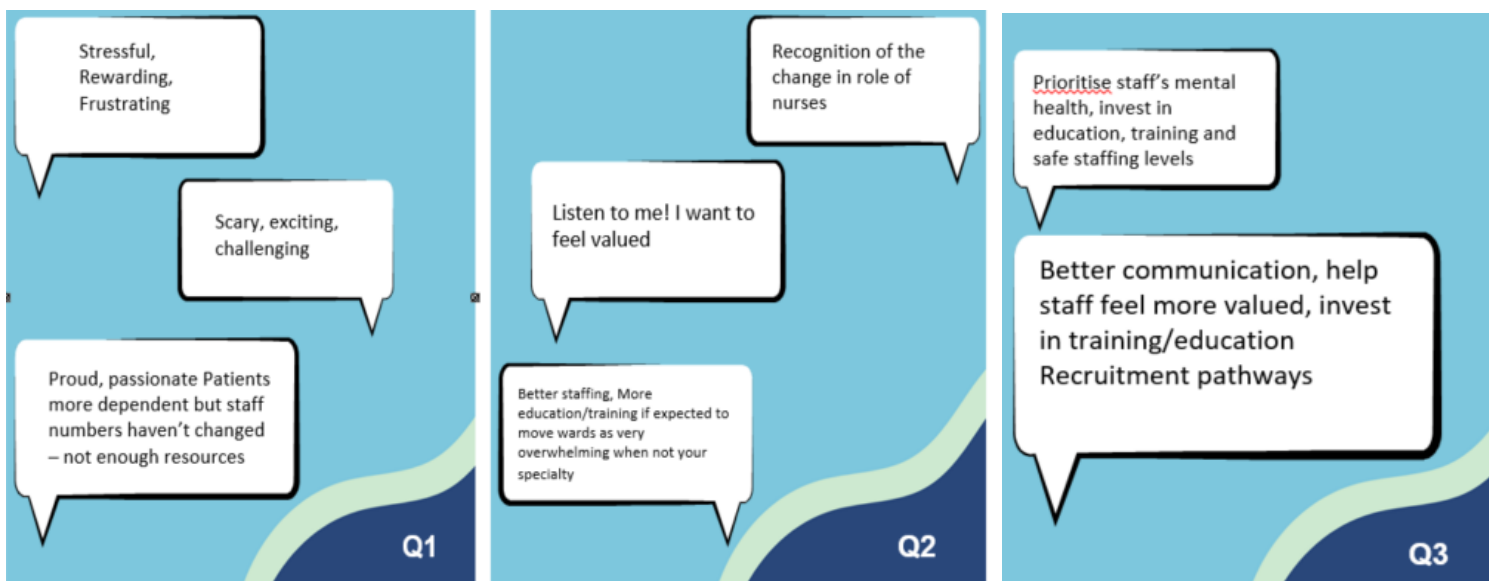

9 Champion training sessions held, producing 143 trained Champions

4 Chief Nurse/Director of Midwifery training sessions held

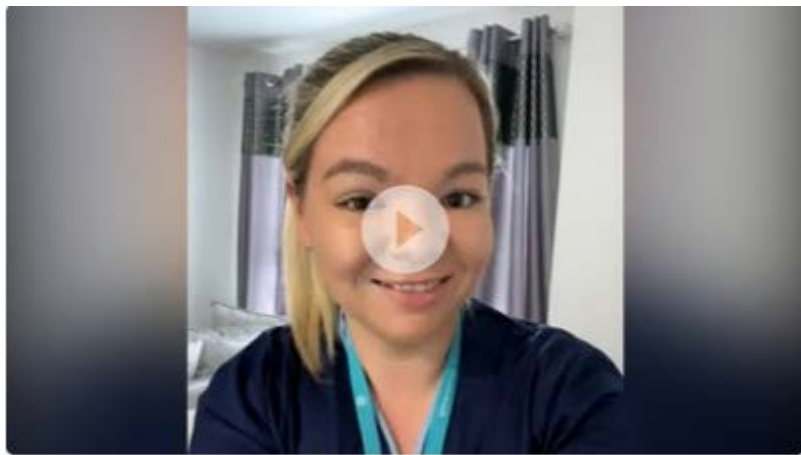

6 roadshows completed, giving us 375 individual pieces of feedback

The purpose of The Big Conversation is to listen and learn more about your experiences and priorities for the future. It focuses on three questions, from which we aim to listen to and learn from your answers:

1. How does it feel to be a nurse or midwife right now?
2. What are your 3 priorities for the future of nursing and midwifery in GGC?
3. How will we work together to move these priorities forward?
