What is Maternal Mental Health?

- A new/expectant's woman's mental health during pregnancy and the first year after birth. This includes mental illness existing before pregnancy, as well as illnesses that develop for the first time, or are greatly exacerbated in the perinatal period.
- Examples of perinatal mental illness include antenatal depression, postnatal depression, anxiety, perinatal obsessive compulsive disorder, postpartum psychosis and post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD). These illnesses can be mild, moderate or severe, requiring different kinds of care or treatment.

Statistics

- Mental distress and illness are common in pregnancy and the first postnatal year, affecting up to 1 in 5 women
- Postnatal depression and anxiety in mothers from racialised communities is 13% higher than in white mothers
- The most common perinatal mental health problem is postnatal depression, with rates ranging between 13% in the first few weeks to 20% in the first year after the birth
- Mental health related deaths are now the leading cause of maternal death in the first postnatal year
- Untreated maternal mental illness may adversely affect the mother-infant relationship and infant development
