

My PDP&R - Angus, Modern Apprentice

"I took the time and effort in preparation for my appraisal in order to convey to Stacey about my learning journey as an Apprentice. In our discussion, we were both able to be open up about particular parts that went well but also reflect on the vast progress and development I have achieved since the beginning of my apprenticeship. Stacey during this time was able to highlight key skills and achievements that I have obtained to encourage me as well as reveal the positive impact this has had in workplace. Both Stacey and I were able to reflect on this further with evidence through training learning plan that I am working through but also making use of the procedures manual to follow the processes and procedures. Overall, I believe that Stacey and I have a great working relationship where we can both be honest and don't feel discouraged to discuss anything which has been so positive and beneficial for the both of us."

Angus, Modern Apprentice, Reviewee

"Angus attended for his appraisal fully prepared and we enjoyed a very open, honest and positive discussion. We opened our discussion around communication and had a discussion about things that had worked well and things that could have gone better. Angus is very reflective and is always looking for ways to improve himself and his processes to provide positive patient care. Angus clearly demonstrated that he had knowledge of processes and procedures and was able to demonstrate good knowledge and understanding of his learning undertaken in his Training Plan as well as following processes and procedures in the Procedures Manual. Overall, I feel that this strengthened the open and honest relationship that Angus and I have and was a very useful and positive experience for both of us"

Stacey, Line Manager, Reviewer

Growing Our Great Community

Need help with planning for your PDP&R conversation or using TURAS Appraisal?
See the L&E pages on Staffnet Hub.