

Queen Elizabeth National Spinal Injuries Unit
Queen Elizabeth University Hospital
1345 Govan Road
Glasgow G51 4TF

The National Spinal Injuries Unit is commissioned to look after all patients with traumatic spinal cord injury in Scotland. The vast majority of referrals are acute, please see website for advice. www.spinalunit.scot.nhs.uk

Occasional patients with spinal paralysis move to Scotland from other parts of the UK or abroad and can be referred by GPs using SCI Gateway. Referrals are directed to the National Spinal Injuries Unit via Queen Elizabeth University Hospital with 2 separate referral specialties: 'No Paralysis' or 'Spinal Paralysis':

Send to:

Greater Glasgow and Clyde

Greater Glasgow and Clyde Non-GP Locations/Providers

Queen Elizabeth University Hospital

National Spinal Injuries Unit - No Paralysis

Protocol: GGC General Referral

Send to:

Greater Glasgow and Clyde

Greater Glasgow and Clyde Non-GP Locations/Providers

Queen Elizabeth University Hospital

National Spinal Injuries Unit - Spinal Paralysis

Protocol: GGC General Referral

The vast majority of patients with established spinal paralysis have already been seen by the National Spinal Injuries Unit and may already be in long term review. If these outpatients have problems related to their spinal paralysis then please send a letter or email directly to the Unit (spinal.unit@ggc.scot.nhs.uk).